Dear Peter,

I'm writing to tell you something about the coming health check-up. We are going to meet at the school gate at 7:30 next Monday morning and then set off for the hospital on the school bus.

Here are some tips to help you prepare. First, get enough sleep. Lack of sleep may cause inaccurate results during the tests, so remember to go to bed early on Sunday night. Second, don't eat or drink too much. You'd better maintain a healthy diet for at least three days before the check-up. Finally, wear proper clothes, which will save you trouble during the examination.

Please feel free to contact me if you have any questions or concerns.

Yours,

Li Hua

题目②

Possible version

Five years ago, I started to devote myself to painting, which turned out to be one of the most important experiences in my life.

One day, after school, I saw some of my schoolmates painting in the art room. The colorful dots and lines caught my attention immediately. I was so drawn to the beauty in front of me, that I joined the Painting Club without hesitation. After that, no matter how bad the weather was, or how much homework I still had, I was on time to each art lesson and finished each painting attentively.

By doing this, I developed incredible focus and decided that I wanted to completely devote myself to painting. Not only did I win countless awards, but my painting journey helped me grow into a better person.
