Pen Pals

We are learning how to write friendly letters at school. I like writing practice letters, but it would be more fun to write a real 13 to someone. Just as I am thinking about it, our teacher, Mrs. Snow says that we really are going to write a letter to someone! We all start talking at once. Mrs. Snow asks us to 14 down again so that she can finish.

She says we are going to write to some students in England to see what life is like in England. That is so 15 ! I want to start at once. Mrs. Snow hands out the 16 of our pen pals, and asks us to use what we learned to write to our pen pals. My pen pal's name is Oliver. Mrs. Snow says we have to ask two questions in our letters:

1. Which holidays do you celebrate (庆祝) during the year?
2. What do you like to play?

We also have to 17 those questions in our letters. She says we can write more things we like to do, and tell our pen pals what school is like here, if we want to.

A few weeks later, we get letters back from our pen pals. That day is 18 ! Oliver plays video games like we do over here. Their holidays are a lot of the same holidays we celebrate, like New Year's Day! One holiday they celebrate that we don't is Boxing Day. It is interesting to 19 what is the same and what is different (不同的) about living in different countries. I can't 20 to learn more about my new pen pal!

Pat has an unusual hobby. She makes cheese (奶酪) on the family farm in Australia. She began by making yogurt (酸奶) with her mother when she was little. Then she started watching her father's workers make cheese. When she is ten, she makes some herself for the first time. "It isn't great," she says, "but the workers help me to slowly get better."

Pat always needs good milk for her cheese, but she doesn't have to buy it. Her parents keep 100 cows on their farm. Pat can just ask them when she needs milk. Last year, her dad gave her a young cow to keep and look after, but it doesn't produce (生产) milk now.

Pat and her family make a few kinds of cheese and they win a prize (奖励) for one of them. Pat says, "Now we are selling cheese in New Zealand. People can read about our prize in magazines (杂志) and on the Internet."

Pat's next idea is to write some online recipes (食谱) for cooking with cheese. "Our cheese is lovely with pizza. I hope a restaurant may buy some one day." But right now Pat is still at school. "Making cheese is fine and winning a prize for it is great, but trying my best to study well is the most important (重要) thing for me now."

24. Pat's hobby is _____.
- A. selling milk in the supermarket B. watching her father make yogurt
C. making cheese on the family farm D. feeding cows on the farm
25. How does Pat get milk for the cheese?
- A. She buys it from her parents' farm.
B. Her parents give milk to her.
C. Her young cow can produce milk.
D. She sells magazines to buy it.
26. The most important thing for her now is _____.
- A. to do well in her lessons
B. to win a prize for cheese
C. to sell more cheese in New Zealand
D. to write online recipes for cooking with cheese

Do you have a tidy or messy desk at home? Do you have difficulty keeping your desk clean and tidy for a long time? You know, a clean and tidy desk helps us find things we need quickly and do things more efficiently (高效地). Now here are some good ways that can help.

First, only keep things you really need on or near your desk. For old papers you never read, you can throw (扔掉) them away or put them somewhere else. Use a box for any papers you have to read. Have a pencil-box for pens and pencils.

Second, don't keep any food or drinks on your desk, because they can make your desk dirty easily. Go to the kitchen when you want to eat something or have a drink, or keep food or drinks on a small table near your desk.

Third, keep important things close to you. Keep the important things close by and easy to get. For example, if you have a few drawers under your desk, the top one should have the things you use most often.

Fourth, clean your desk every day. Do it after studying! If you do it every day, it will only take five minutes and you can start each new day with a clean and tidy space (空间).

It's important to have a good habit (习惯). Trying these small ways can help you make a big difference in your daily life.

27. What can we know from the passage?
- A. A clean and tidy desk is good for our study.
 - B. Putting everything on the desk is a good habit.
 - C. Keeping food on the desk can help you with homework.
 - D. Keeping all the things in a box can help you find things quickly.
28. The writer asks us to _____ to keep the desk tidy.
- A. put important things under our chairs
 - B. keep old papers on the top drawer
 - C. clean the desk after studying
 - D. take 20 minutes to clean the desk every week
29. The phrase in Paragraph 6 "make a big difference" in this passage means _____.
- A. have a different schoolbag
 - B. do things more efficiently
 - C. tidy your room carefully
 - D. put things everywhere
30. The passage is mainly about _____.
- A. how often you need to clean your desks
 - B. why people keep the desk clean and tidy
 - C. where you put your old books
 - D. how to keep your desk clean and tidy

D

American school children usually have lots of activities after school. They can join many kinds of clubs in their school. There are about 40 to 50 different ones. There are study clubs, academic (学术的) clubs, art clubs, sports clubs and so on. In these clubs, students can study, do sports and enjoy school life.

Some students like to go to study clubs after school. The study club is a learning center. Students can do homework and talk about their interesting subjects. In an academic club, students can learn about science, maths, writing and more. In the art club, the students can learn to draw. If you like sports, you can join the sports club. It has a basketball team, a football team, a tennis team and so on. You can choose your favourite team and play with your friends there. When the new term begins every year, students can choose (选择) to join clubs. They only need to spend 4 to 5 dollars on it every year.

If the clubs need money, they might try to sell something. For example, the cooking club may make and sell cookies to other students. The art club may sell their paintings. On New Year's Day, they also sell their work and donate (捐献) money to the needy.

If some children are disabled (有残疾的), they can also enjoy their club life. There are some kinds of special clubs for these kids.

American students think that student clubs are very important to their development (发展). Because there are many after-school activities, they have a happy life at school. Few students don't like going to school.

31. What can we learn from the passage?
- A. Only teachers can join the academic club.
 - B. Students can learn to play tennis in the study club.
 - C. Students should pay a lot of money for the club.
 - D. Disabled students can also join school clubs.
32. The second paragraph mainly tells us
- A. what students do in the clubs
 - B. how students join the clubs
 - C. when students join their favourite clubs
 - D. where students do their homework
33. Which of the following would be the best title for the passage?
- A. Students' Favourite Subjects
 - B. American School Clubs
 - C. School Academic Clubs
 - D. Interesting Activities
