Today is a big day for me. I still remember the last time I spoke in class three years ago. I tried to 32 a "W" but just made a strange sound. I felt 33 at that time. Everyone laughed and I didn't speak in class from then on. But my doctor tells me if I listen to classic music, I will not stutter (口吃). So I always wear my headphones in class. It works. So that's why I agreed to 34 on the Science Day today.

I arrive at school early this morning. My topic (主题) is "Bacteria Eat Plastic". David is waiting by the door, smiling. Ray is there, too. He says, "Hey, Tom, guess what?" Without thinking, I try to say, "What?" and I stutter again on the "W". Ray and his friends laugh a lot. I 35 and run.

I want to give up, but I get a text "Good Luck" from Dad. I am not going to let Dad down and I am not going to let people like Ray make me feel bad any more.

Unluckily, when it is my turn to speak, I look up and see David. And I am so nervous that I play the 36 music. It is dance music. The 37 is when I have dance music on my headphones, I can't stop myself talking in the same rhythm (节奏) as the music. So it sounds like I am rapping. Most people in school never hear me speak. They are surprised to hear me doing a rap about "Bacteria Eat Plastic". When I 38, they all stand up and cheer. They don't know the 39 on my headphones. They think I am a good rapper. Everyone wants to be my friend. What a great day!

B

I still remember crying on my first day at school. I am not writing about kindergarten (幼儿园) because everyone cries there — sometimes every day. I am talking about my first day in primary school. My mother brings me to school, hands me over to a teacher and then she has to leave. I think that she is not with me anymore. That makes me really sad.

Right after my mother leaves, I start to cry. Then the boy next to me starts to cry, too. And almost everyone is crying. The teacher clearly knows what to do. She doesn't look at us. Soon, we learn that we are not going to get our mothers back no matter what we do, and so we start to do some coloring. Later, she stops us one by one and gives us our name cards. Then we know that we belong to Mrs. Foo, our teacher.

We are coloring all day and we finish over ten pictures. But we're happy about one thing. Everyone can speak to the teacher and she speaks English the way we do.

七年级(英语) 第5页(共8页)

The end of the day comes soon. When my mother and I meet at the school gate, I find there is a big smile on her face. I feel I am a grown-up boy now. I am in school.

C. his mother isn't with him anymore D. it's very difficult to color the pictures
45. What does the teacher give the kids?
- A. Name cards. B. Story books. C. Pencil boxes. D. Model planes.
46. What can we know about the boy?
- A. He cries all day long. B. He's lost in the school.
C. He likes coloring the best. D. He's ready for school in the end.

C

Are there Harry Potter books in your school library? Many kids all over the world are reading J. K. Rowling's books in school. But some parents think their children shouldn't be able to find those and some other books in school libraries.

Should some books be kept away from school libraries? All over the country, schools are discussing the question.

Yes! Some Books Should Be Banned from School Libraries!

Many parents believe that books with violence (暴力) or bad words shouldn't be in schools. Some parents want the Harry Potter books to be out of school because there are fights and magic.

Most parents know what's good for kids. They have a right to decide which books should or should not be in school libraries.

Books should meet certain standards (标准) before they are put in schools. Is this a good book for kids to read? Is it full of violence? Does it have bad words or ideas kids shouldn't learn about? If a book is not good for all kids, it should not be in a school library.

No! Books Should Not Be Banned from School Libraries!

Many people say that it's the parents' job, not the school's job, to check out what their kids are reading. Parents should also decide what their own kids read. If they don't like a book, they should not let their kids read it. For example, kids can be stopped from reading stories like the Harry Potter series if their parents don't think they're OK.

Many schools let kids borrow these books if they have a signed (签名的) paper from a parent. That works fine. Kids without the paper can't read the book.

Some books are not OK for all kids to read. But if more parents are careful about what their own kids read, they won't have to ban books from the library.

47. Parents think that their kids shouldn't read Harry Potter books _____.
- A. because there are bad stories B. because there are strange ideas
C. because there are wrong words D. because there are too much violence
48. To borrow books like Harry Potter series, kids should _____.
- A. ask teachers for help B. pay some money themselves
C. have a signed paper from a parent D. make sure their parents like the books
49. What does the writer mean by saying "banned" in the third paragraph?
- A. We should talk about different books in libraries.
B. We should stop reading books in school libraries.
C. We shouldn't throw J. K. Rowling's books away.
D. We shouldn't have some books in school libraries.

七年级(英语) 第6页(共8页)

50. What could be the best title of the passage?
 A. For fun or for ideas?
 B. Who decides the books for kids?
 C. To keep them or to keep them away?
 D. How to borrow books from the library?

七、阅读短文，根据短文内容回答问题。(共10分，每小题2分)

Where do you think the first hamburger comes from?

You may think the first hamburger, of course, comes from the United States or Germany. But the fact is that it comes from China.

If you're thinking it is impossible right now, you're not alone. Rou jia mo is called Chinese hamburger. It is said to be the world's first hamburger. Rou jia mo appeared earlier than American ones, from about 221 BC to 207 BC.

Chinese hamburgers are "meat burgers" or "meat sandwiches." They are very real—with a lot of meat inside without any vegetables, which is quite different from the American-style burgers.

It was a street food in Shaanxi Province of China in the past, and is now eaten all over the country. It's usually prepared and eaten on the street. While the bun is traditionally baked in a clay oven, today it's often fried in a pan. The bun, or mo in Chinese, is made up of a simple mixture (混合物) of wheat flour and water. And this makes a chewy (有嚼劲的) and fine bun, or mo, for the delicious filling. The meat filling might be pork, beef, lamb or chicken that has been stewed (炖) for hours.

Rou jia mo usually costs about 6 yuan each in most parts of China. You can find it everywhere. It is the best snack between meals when visiting some places. If you try it once, you will never forget this "mouth-watering" food.

51. What is rou jia mo called?
 52. When did rou jia mo appear?
 53. Do people eat rou jia mo all over China now?
 54. How much is rou jia mo in most parts of China?
 55. What do you think of rou jia mo according to the passage?
