When we talk about reading, we probably think of eyes, because we read with our eyes. But we can do some reading with our ears, too. With the development (发展) of smart phones, it's getting easier to do some reading with ears—by listening to stories, news, novels (小说) and so on. This is audio reading.

Audio reading is becoming more and more popular these years. One of the reasons for this is that people can "read" in bed before going to sleep. Many people like to just stay in bed in the dark (黑暗) before they fall asleep. This would be the best time to do some audio reading. If you read a book made of paper, the lights have to be turned on (打开) and you have to turn the pages with your hand. But to do audio reading, you just stay in bed and “read” with your ears.

People can do audio reading when the legs, body and arms are kept busy. For example, people can listen to audiobooks when they are exercising or doing housework. Some people would like to do audio reading in the kitchen. They think it’s boring to cook. So they can enjoy their time by listening to news or stories at the same time.

Also, audio reading is helpful for blind (失明的) people. It’s difficult for them to read in the past. But now, with the help of audio reading, they can listen to what they want.

Audio reading helps more people enjoy the fun of reading. Would you like to try audio reading?

阅读短文, 根据短文内容回答问题。

In China, people play lion dances on big days like the Chinese New Year, because they think the lion dance can bring good luck.

The lion dance started in China over 1000 years ago. In the Three Kingdoms Period (三国时期), people began wearing lion-like clothes to celebrate festivals. It was the first lion dance. In the Tang Dynasty (朝代), it became more important.

In China, there are two kinds of lion dances—the northern kind and the southern kind. The northern lion is red and yellow, and it looks dangerous, like a real lion. There is usually a father lion, a mother lion, and sometimes little lions in the northern lion dance. The southern lion is different. It looks lovely and funny and it has more colours.

The lion dance needs one man dancing the head and the other man dancing the rear. But in the northern lion dance, there's a dancer with a ball standing before the lion. The northern lion dance has close relations (关系) to Chinese Kungfu. There are difficult movements in the dance, like the jumps and rolls (翻滚). So, the northern lion dance is also called wushi. In the southern lion dance, the movements are about a lion's behavior (行为), like scratching an itch (挠痒), shaking of the body and so on. So, the southern lion dance is also called wenshi.

Now the lion dance is not only popular in China but also in any place where Chinese live. It is a great art for people all over the world.
