五、文段表达

39. 参考范文：

题目①

I'm writing to thank you for everything you did for our club. You helped us design many amazing activities for the English Show, such as the talk show and the drama. It's no surprise that students were crazy about the talk show. Also, you offered valuable suggestions about the opening part of the show, which were quite helpful. Thanks to your creative ideas, the show was a great success. What's more, I have learned a lot while working with you on the show, especially the importance of listening to team members and sharing ideas with them. You were always willing to share your thoughts, and at the same time listen to different voices. This helped us work more effectively together. Thank you again for everything you have done for us.

题目②

Self-reflection is a process of thinking carefully about our own behavior and beliefs. Indeed, when we understand ourselves at a deeper level, we will then be able to see personal growth within ourselves.

To practice self-reflection, I usually find a quiet place and spend some time alone. I start by asking myself the questions on my mind. For example, "what are my strengths and weaknesses?" and "how can I make better use of my time?". Also, I keep a diary of what's going on when I experience strong emotions. A mood journal allows me to not only record my feelings, but also deal with them. In this way, I manage to accept and then let go of negative emotions that I experience.

I've learned that everything in life is a lesson if you look at it the right way. Self-reflection has taught me how to learn from my past and be hopeful for the future.
