My name is Ben Mansury. I'm fifteen years old and study in a middle school. In school, I never join in any group discussion or stage (舞台) program. So, I never knew what stage nervousness was.

Our community has a weekly "Students Ideas" program. About two years ago, I received a call from the chairman of our community. He invited me to the "Students Ideas" talk the next morning to speak to the group.

The time between his call to the next morning was like several weeks for me. The whole night, I could not sleep. Many 13 were coming. One of them was to call the chairman, with regret, and tell him that I could not come. But finally, I thought, if I missed this 14, the community would never invite me again to any of their programs. So, I decided to go.

I reached the hall in time. When my turn came and I started, my heartbeat increased and my mouth went dry. I wasn't even able to read the words on the paper properly. I had no idea where I was standing and what I was talking. That was the day when I 15 my biggest weakness: public speaking.

After I finished, I met with the chairman and 16 what happened to me. He said that this happens to everyone. It is very 17. He suggested that I should come again the next week.

I 18 a talk carefully. This time when I gave the talk, I was somewhat comfortable but not confident (自信的). Afterwards, I met with the chairman again and told him about the improvement I 19 I had made. He was kind enough to invite me again.

For around one month, I practiced a lot for my talk. This time I was feeling comfortable and both the chairman and my neighbors thought I did a good job.

I learned that everything is 20 if we take the first step, as the saying goes: A journey of thousand miles begins with first step.

The Palace Museum has always been a must-see for Chinese and foreign tourists, which is the cultural treasure of China. Since 2018, more than 80 percent of the Forbidden City has been opened to the public and the number of tourists increased rapidly and reached to 1.7 million.

In recent years, the Palace Museum has drawn more and more people's attention by its fresh new events. From new media tools to the creative cultural products, from grand activities to attractive TV shows, the Palace Museum has achieved amazing success. To keep pace with the times, the old palace is updating (更新) in many fashionable ways.

Since 2014, to deliver the image of —A Warm Forbidden City to the public, new media tools of the Palace Museum have changed a lot. Its Weibo keeps showing the palace's charm (魅力) by posting its beautiful photos of four seasons and lovely cats. From the coldness of history to the style of common touch, the image undoubtedly won more favors.

Museum-themed products, such as tapes, fans, notebooks and lipsticks, are designed in fashionable ways. They often cause a buzz on Chinese social networks. The sales approached (接近) CNY 1.5 billion in 2017. —These creations provide a new view for understanding the palace and traditional culture, said a user on Weibo. The increased income, without raising the ticket price, also made it possible for the Palace Museum to hold 60,000 educational activities in 2018.

The light festival is another idea. It was the first time the Palace Museum was lit up at night and opened to the public for the Lantern Festival. The light show, which provided audience with full sensory (感官的) experiences, has wowed the crowd. Therefore, people have a new choice to celebrate the Lantern Festival besides watching the Gala Show on TV at home.

For those who have been to the museum before, a TV show about the Forbidden City evokes (唤起) their interests in visiting it again. As an audience said, —Shang Xin Le Gu Gong makes me realize that there are always unknown areas to explore in the Forbidden City. In another TV show, The Nation's Greatest Treasures, nine leading museums come together to introduce the treasures they look after. This has further raised people's interests in more museums. These TV shows have brought an instant cultural heat and greatly increased the number of visitors in these museums.

Nation stays alive when its culture stays alive. Through these ways, the Palace Museum and other museums not only carry forward their own history, but also call on people's love for traditional culture. After all, it is the memory and the symbol of a country's history and the precious wealth of all human.

Many teenagers in high school want to try out for sports. A lot of them try out because they think it will make them popular or get them more dates. While this may seem like a silly reason, there are lots of other benefits to sports that your children may fail to notice. Here are some reasons that you'll find comforting.

With TV, movies, computers and video games becoming more and more popular, it has become so much easier for teenagers to be by themselves rather than going out with friends. Kids used to go hang out at the mall or drive around town; now they just sit at home. Getting your teens into a sport gives them a chance to go out and spend time with other people socially. While they may not find a new best friend, they will learn how to communicate with one another and work as a team and they'll find something useful later in life.

One of the biggest problems in our society today is obesity, and it's not just a problem with adults. More and more kids are becoming overweight. Joining a team sport will help teens get out and get some exercise without feeling pressured (有压力的) to lose weight or get in shape. What's more, if your teens see that their physical condition is causing them to under-perform, they may be encouraged to do other activities to get healthy. By the time your children reach their teenager year, part of good parenting will be providing them with direction and encouragement and continuing to help them develop a healthy style of living.

These days, it's becoming harder to show your teenagers that you love and support them. A great way to do this is by showing up to their game, helping them practice, and helping with team fundraisers. These are also great ways to spend time with your kids and talk to them.

You may think "but my teen isn't good enough to make their school team". There are plenty of other places besides school to play team sports. You can always check out "for-fun" teams. You could look into more unknown sports that you may not have thought of, did you know that bowling is a NCAA team sports? If you do a little research, you're sure to find something your teen will enjoy.

Team sports are a great way for teens to get out of the house, get moving, make friends, and even get a scholarship to college. So why not talk to them about getting into sports today?

- () 30. From Paragraph 2, we know that _____.
- A. sports help teens to make best friends with others
B. movies and video games are more popular than sports
C. teens prefer playing with friends outdoors to staying at home
D. sports help teens learn how to talk and work with others
- () 31. The underlined word "obesity" in Paragraph 3 probably means "_____".
- A. feeling very lonely B. taking less exercise
C. having too much pressure D. having too much body fat
- () 32. The writer may agree that _____.
- A. encouragement helps teens develop a healthy style of living
B. being present at your teens' game shows your support to them
C. trying out for sports can make teens popular or get more dates
D. teens on "for-fun" teams are better at playing unknown sports
- () 33. What's the best title of the passage?
- A. The Ways of Doing Team Sports B. The Free-Time Activities for Teens
C. The Advantages of Sports for Teens D. The Purpose of Trying out for Sports

Steven Cleaver has some outdoor activity ideas for families. The activities will drive your family's sadness away. Steven is the Executive Director (执行理事) of Horizons for Youth, an organization in Massachusetts that has worked on children's environmental education for more than 60 years.

We asked Steven to share some outdoor activities that families can do together. Here's what he told us.

Going to a nature center — In State Audubon societies, there are usually smaller nature centers. Naturalists are ready to answer kids' questions so parents don't need to worry about teaching the subject matter themselves.

Hiking — Going on a hike is a great way to go outdoors and get some exercise. State parks can offer free paths to hike along and many fields to explore.

Gardening — Gardening is a wonderful family activity. Not only can the whole family get involved, but everyone can benefit from the harvest. Since it's winter, you might just start with a family plan for the garden. The garden can be a cooperative effort where parents can teach their children teamwork. Assign (分配) tasks to each family member. Who plans? Who waters?

Fruit picking — It's a great seasonal outdoor activity. Children get to see how fruits grow and everyone gets to enjoy the fruits which they pick.

Cleaning up — Taking part in nature clean-ups or volunteering to do path maintenance(维护) teaches kids that they have the ability to do something positive for the environment and communities. When parents get involved (参与), they can set a good example for their children to follow, which will help children realize their responsibility (责任) to protect the environment.

34. Will the outdoor activities drive your family's sadness away?
35. How many outdoor activities does Steven share?
36. Who will answer kids' questions in nature centers, naturalists or parents?
37. Which places can offer free paths to hike along?
38. What is a great seasonal outdoor activity?
