Puppy Love

Nate looked out his bedroom window. He had a perfect view of his neighbor's backyard and his neighbor's new puppy, Peanut. Mr. Jensen had recently moved to the neighborhood. He let Nate play with his little ___31___ he brought home from the pet store just now.

Nate was ___32___. He wanted a puppy, but his sister had dog allergies (过敏). After a while, though, Mr. Jensen told him to stop playing with Peanut because they made too much noise.

The weather was getting colder. Nate could see Peanut was ___33___ in the backyard a lot. It seemed like Mr. Jensen never played with Peanut. Nate also ___34___ that Peanut's food and water dishes were always empty. Peanut looked ___35___ skinny. He didn't run around like he used to.

"Mom." said Nate, "I am worried about Peanut. He doesn't have any protection from the sun or cold. I never see Mr. Jensen play with him. What should we do?"

"Let's keep an eye on Peanut, Nate." said Mom. "Being responsible means we ___35___ about other people as well as animals. We need to show them respect and we have a responsibility to make sure their owners are kind to animals."

"Okay, Mom." said Nate.

Peanut's living conditions did not improve. One day Nate saw Mr. Jensen ___36___ Peanut for barking too much. Nate told his Mom. His mother helped him call the Department of Animal Control.

The Officer Clark came to talk to Nate and his Mom and they explained how Mr. Jensen treated Peanut.

"I think Peanut deserves (应得) a better home." said Officer Clark.

Because of Peanut's living conditions, Animal Control ___37___ Peanut away from Mr. Jensen. Officer Clark placed Peanut in an animal shelter where volunteers helped. Here Peanut received food, water, exercise and, of course, love.

Best of all, Nate was inspired to become a volunteer there. His work there taught him about being responsible and respectful to the animals and the ___38___ who worked there.

After a month, a kind family came ___39___ for a pet. Nate introduced the family to Peanut. Peanut's tail didn't stop wagging as each family member hugged him. When the family asked if they could keep Peanut, Nate smiled.

Before Nate said goodbye to Peanut, he gave him a hug and said, "Thank you, Peanut, for teaching me that I have a ___40___ to care about others."

Riverside High School is home to three very special young people: Alan, Mario, and Natalie. These three students all give up several hours each week to help out other people.
 Mario	Mario loves animals and plans to be a vet. Every Saturday morning, while other teens are playing sports, studying or sleeping in, Mario is helping out at an animal hospital. But volunteering brings its own reward, according to Mario. "Sure, I work hard," he says, "but I'm also learning a lot about animals."
 Natalie	Natalie likes reading. She taught herself to read at the age of four. She works as the volunteer at an After School Reading Center, helping young people to read. "Volunteering is great," says Natalie, "because you can do the things that you love to do and help others at the same time."
 Alan	Alan wants to be a professional singer. Most weekends, he works at a charity hospital. Volunteers don't receive any money. For Alan, the reward comes in bringing happiness to others. Alan says, "Everyone should do some kind of volunteer work. Then the world would be a better place."

Santa Claus Does Not Forget

Bertie was a very good boy, but he always forgot. No matter what he was asked to do, in the end his answer always was “I forgot.” If he was sent to the store to get something, he would return with nothing but his usual answer.

His parents decided that something must be done to make the little boy remember.

Christmas was near, and Bertie was busy making out a long list of things that he wanted Santa Claus to bring him. “Santa Claus may forget some of those things,” said his mother.

“He cannot,” replied Bertie, “because I will write all the things on this paper. Then Santa Claus can see it and put the things in my stocking (长袜).”

Christmas morning came, and Bertie was up early to see what was in his stocking. His mother kept away from him as far as she could, for she knew what Santa Claus had done.

Finally she heard him coming to her room. He held a list in his hand, which is much longer than the one he had made out. He put it in his mother’s hand, while tears of disappointment fell from his eyes. It was a list of all the things that Bertie had forgotten to do over the last six months. At the end of all was written, in big letters, “I FORGOT.”

Bertie cried for an hour. Then they went to grandpa’s house. There for the first time he saw a Christmas tree. It was very strange to Bertie, but on the Christmas tree he found everything he had written on his list.

Did he change his bad habit? Not all at once, but when his mother saw that he was very careless, she would say, “Remember, Santa Claus does not forget!”

45. When Bertie was asked to do something, his answer always was “_____” in the end.
A. I remembered B. I returned C. I did D. I forgot
46. Bertie made a long list of the things _____.
A. he put on the Christmas tree B. he had forgotten to do before
C. he wanted Santa to bring him D. his parents wanted him to remember
47. How did Bertie feel after he read the list Santa Claus left to him?
A. He was disappointed. B. He was excited.
C. He was pleased. D. He was angry.
48. Why would his mother say, “Remember, Santa Claus does not forget!”?
A. To make Bertie remember Santa Claus’ gifts.
B. To remind Bertie to change his bad habit.

- C. To help Santa Claus not to forget the list.
- D. To tell Bertie Santa Claus never forgets.

Having a Perfect Holiday

Are you between 12 and 16 years old?
Do you feel bored when you go and play with your friends nearby?
Are you looking for the perfect holiday?
Would you like fun, new friends and a new adventure?

We have the answer! And all you need is a bike! Join a

Paradise Cycling Adventure Holiday!

You will join a group of up to 12 teenagers and one or two leaders. You'll see mountains, the sea, pretty country villages, and lakes. You'll cycle about 20 km on most days, but don't worry—you don't need to cycle up any mountains and you can go quite slowly if you need to. On the days when you don't cycle, you can have a go at some different sports, like swimming and caving, and you'll move to a different hotel most nights.

At the end of your holiday you'll find you are fitter, more energetic and have more friends! It is really the perfect holiday.

Places are limited, so book your place now!

Phone 005 6867 4758 or visit our website: www.paradisecycling.cn.

Welcome to a

Cultural Exchange Holiday!

We have been the leaders in short exchange holidays between Chinese and American schoolchildren since 1995.

The Culture Exchange Holiday offers programmes in more cities than ever before – New York, Washington DC, Houston, Dallas, San Francisco, Chicago and New Orleans. In addition to English classes, you go to a real American school with children of your own age, and you live with an American family for four weeks. In return, an American schoolgirl or boy lives with your family and goes to your school.

Weekends are spent with the American family, but on Sundays cultural visits are also offered to places of interest and on these visits you will meet other exchange students. Our group leaders are fully qualified and experienced tour guides. You can even enter our competition and win a free Cultural Exchange Holiday!

Check out our five-week programme. Spend four weeks with an American family and then join us for a week touring Florida by train. Visit the Everglades, see the dolphins and have fun at Disneyland!

Want to know more? Fancy winning a free trip? Contact us at: www.culturalexchangehol.cn.

Technology to Help Developing Countries

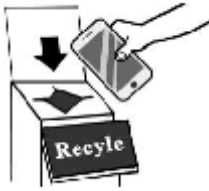

When we think about giving help to developing countries, we often think about giving money so that these countries can build schools and hospitals, buy food and medicine, or find clean water supplies. These seem to be the most important basic needs of the people we are trying to help. However, it's far from enough. Ladies and gentlemen, we've got to come up with some better ideas to help them.

I was very surprised, then, when I read about a plan to make cheap laptop computers for children in developing countries. A man called Nicholas Negroponte invented a cheap laptop computer, which can run without electricity. He decided to invent this computer after he visited a school in Cambodia.

The laptop which Mr. Negroponte has designed is a little different from the normal laptop computers you can buy in the shops. One difference is that it will be covered in rubber (橡胶) so that it is very strong and won't be damaged easily. As an electricity supply can be a problem in developing countries, the computer also has a special handle so that children can wind the computer up to give it extra power when needed.

These special laptop computers will cost less than 100 US dollars and Mr.

Negroponte wants to build as many as 15 million machines in the first year of production. The idea is that these computers will help the children's education as they will be able to access the Internet. These computers might not help the people in developing countries immediately, but by improving children's education they should help people to find their own solutions to their problems in the long term.

Another idea to help children in developing countries is to recycle old mobile phones so that they can be used again. In the UK, and probably in many other countries too, millions of mobile phones are thrown away every year. The waste created by throwing away these old phones is very bad for the environment, so it seems to be an excellent idea to recycle them. In this way we will be able to achieve two important goals at the same time.

We will reduce the waste we produce and help others. In other words, we will be able to "kill two birds with one stone", and that is always a good thing.

53. The expression "be damaged" in Paragraph 3 probably means "_____".

A. be fixed B. be hurt C. be used D. be broken

54. From the passage we can learn that the cheap laptop _____.

- A. can help the developing countries with the electricity supply
- B. can be moved and carried with the help of a special handle
- C. can help the children's education by surfing the Internet
- D. will be covered with rubber so that it can save money

55. The writer may agree that in developing countries these ideas can _____.

- A. help the children reduce waste and earn money
- B. be good for the environment and the education
- C. help the children solve the problems at once
- D. provide the basic needs for the people there

七、阅读短文，根据短文内容，从短文后的五个选项中选出能填入空白处的最佳选项。每个选项只能用一次。（共10分，每小题2分）

Once upon a time there were three roommates who lived on the sixtieth floor of a tall building.

One evening they returned home from hard work, they were very tired. 56. So they tried to think of how to get to their apartment, finally one of them said, "57, but to climb the stairs all the way up, I suggest that after twenty floors, one of us tells a funny story, so we laugh and forget about being tired. And again on the fortieth floor, the second one would do the same. When we get to the sixtieth floor, the last one should tell a sad story. So we can fall asleep right away."

They all agreed, and after reaching the twenty-first floor, one told them a very funny story. 58. And then the second boy told even a better joke, again they laughed even harder, and continued up till they got to their apartment door. The first two said to the third one, “59 . So we can go straight to bed.”

“I will tell you one of the saddest things that could have ever happened to us.” he said. “And what would that be?” They both asked. “60 .” he replied.

- A. They laughed so hard and continued to the fortieth floor
B. But they found the elevators didn't work
C. We forgot the keys in the car downstairs
D. Now you have to tell us a real sad story
E. Since we don't have any other choices

八、阅读短文，根据短文内容回答问题。（共10分，每小题2分）

You might hear about all the different clubs at your school and wonder – where did they all come from? How do you start a school club? This simple step-by-step guide will show you how to start a club right from the beginning to the end.

Work out the plan. Choose a time and a place for your club. Decide on a room to hold the club in with your friend, and speak with the person in charge of the room. Agree with them on a time, but make it during school hours, and not during lessons or work time. Plan out how the club will run. At many schools, students start planning the club before the summer vacation.

Find responsible people. You can't start a club with only one member. Every club needs some people who are responsible, intelligent and hardworking. A club including people like this will certainly succeed. Also starting to talk with the responsible friends will help in the planning of the club so that you will not have to do it by yourself.

Talk to the teachers. Speak to the teachers of both your classes and your members' classes. If all of them agree on your plan, you may speak to the headmaster. If the headmaster agrees, move on to the next step.

Persuade (说服) others to join. The first thing is to create a poster. On the poster, you can introduce your club with some pictures to attract others. Prepare a speech. Make people understand the motive of your club and different needs of the club. This will provide a clear view to get people to join.

Stay organized. Now that a club has started, it is not over yet. All of the hard parts may have passed, but there is still the maintenance (维护) of the club. You need to make sure that everything works well and members can learn and enjoy themselves in the club.

Enjoy your club!

61. Will this step-by-step guide show you how to start a club?
62. When do students start planning the club at many schools?
63. What kind of people does every club need?
64. What is the first thing to persuade others to join in the club?
65. What does the writer want to tell us in the passage?

Dear Peter,

How is it going? I'm glad to hear from you. My role model is my classmate Jiajia. She is good at English and she studies very hard. She is also very kind and helpful. Once, our group had some difficulties in preparing the English play. Jiajia was not our group member but she helped us to practice. She gave us many useful suggestions. At last, our group won. We thanked her but she said we won because of the teamwork. I learn we should not only try our best to do things well but also help others when they need. I want to follow her example.

Would you like to tell me about your role model?

W: Not bad! I went to visit my grandparents in Jiangsu Province. The train was full of people, and I had to stand for over three hours!

M: Bad luck. Why is travel so difficult in winter?

W: Well, it's the busiest season in China because of the Spring Festival. How about you, Peter?

M: We flew direct to Hong Kong – and the plane left a little too late! But the pilot succeeded in landing on time. Then we took a ship to Lantau Island and went to Disneyland. It was great fun!

W: That sounds great! But now, we'd better get back to work. We're going to have a big exam at the end of the term.

M: There's nothing you need to worry about as long as you work hard.

W: And after the exam, there's the school party. We're all looking forward to it!

M: Exactly! We'll have a great time!

Ladies and gentlemen, welcome to the Science Museum. I'm Mark. The Science Museum is the most friendly museum in London. In most museums, there's no shouting and no running, and you aren't allowed to touch anything. But the Science Museum is different...it's noisy! People talk about what they can see and do here. If you want to answer all your questions about science, this is the right place for you.

On the second and third floors, you can learn about communications and environment as well as math, physics and chemistry. For example, you can find out how people dig coal from the ground and use it to create energy.

The Launch Pad on the third floor is the most popular room and it is my favorite too, because there are lots of physics experiments. For example, if you want to fill a bag with sand, you have to control a kind of truck on wheels and move it into the correct place.

Then you can go upstairs to the Human and Nature room. You can compare your speed with animals there. You hear a noise and push a button. If you aren't fast enough, the lion catches you! I'm faster than all my friends, but the lion still catches me.

The Science Museum is interesting for people of all ages. You can do a lot of things there.

Hope you will enjoy your visit to the museum. Thank you.

W: Good morning. Welcome to the Sunset Hotel. What can I do for you?
M: Good morning. My name is Jack Black. I have a reservation for a single room with a table.
W: OK. A single room with a table. Let me check your reservation. Can you spell your name, please?
M: Jack Black. J-A-C-K, Jack, B-L-A-C-K, Black.
W: Very good, sir. A single room with a table, for Monday, June 11th. How long will you be staying?
M: For four nights, from Monday to Friday morning. I'll be leaving on Friday morning.
W: From Monday to Friday morning, OK. Would you like breakfast or lunch?
M: Lunch, please.
W: Lunch, OK. Would you please leave your telephone number?
M: Yes. It's 6-3-7-2-8-3-4-0.
W: 63728340. Thank you very much. Do you need a parking pass?
M: I don't have a car. I took a taxi from the airport.
W: All right. Here are your room keys. Room 653. Just take the elevator on the right up to the 6th floor.
M: Room 653. Ok, thank you.
W: You're welcome. Enjoy your stay.
