A doctor entered the hospital hurriedly after being called in for an important surgery (外科手术). He found the boy's father in the hall waiting worriedly.

On seeing him, the father cried out, “Why did you take all this time to come? Don't you know that my son is in danger? Don't you have any sense of duty?” The doctor smiled and said, “I am sorry. I wasn't in the hospital and I came as fast as I could after receiving the call and now, I wish you'd calm down so that I can do my work.”

“Calm down?! What if your son was in this room right now? Would you calm down? If your own son dies while waiting for a doctor, then what will you do?” said the father angrily. The doctor smiled again and replied, “We will do our best and you should also pray (祈祷) for your son's healthy life.”

The surgery took some hours after which the doctor went out happily, “Thank goodness! Your son is saved!”

And without waiting for the father's reply, he carried on his way running by saying, "If you have any questions, ask the nurse."

"Couldn't he wait some minutes so that I can ask about my son's state?" shouted the father when seeing the nurse minutes after the doctor left.

The nurse answered, tears coming down her face. "His son died yesterday in a road accident. He was at the burial (葬礼) when we called him for your son's surgery. And now that he saved your son's life, he left running to finish his son's burial."

About 230 years ago, some rats got to Hawadax Island and they killed the birds on the island. Now thanks to five-year hard work by volunteers, the silent Rat Island as it had been called for many years, has been returned to its rightful owners — birds.

The rats arrived at Hawadax Island in 1780 when a Japanese ship carrying them broke down at sea nearby. They completely killed the native animals because the environment of the island was not built to save its animals from the rats. There are no trees on the island, which meant that the birds were used to building their homes low in the ground, giving the rats chance to eat both eggs and baby chicks. As years passed, the birds that had called the island home for thousands of years, disappeared completely.

In 2007, the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service started an action to drive the rats away from the island and try to bring back the beautiful birds that had once called it home. Because there were about 10,000 rats living on the Rat Island, so it was not an easy task. But by 2009, there were no more rats on the island!

Then slowly but surely, the birds began to return. Sadly, some of the birds were killed by the rat poison that had been used to deal with the rats. But now it seems things are becoming better and the island is starting to look like its old self.

Today, the sounds of singing birds flying in and out are a common sight. Volunteers have found more and more ground homes and birds on the island. Though the island is still not back to its nature, it's now getting better and better.

40. Who killed the birds in Hawadax Island 230 years ago?

- A. rats                      B. hunters                      C. volunteers                      D. Japanese

41. What does the underlined words "rat poison" in Paragraph 4 mean?

- A. Something that a rat makes                      B. Something that a rat likes
C. Something that helps a rat                      D. Something that kills a rat

42. The writer wants to tell us that _____?

- A. the island is now back to its nature                      B. rats will soon come back to the island
C. no birds want to come back to the island                      D. more and more birds will come to the island

School education is very important and useful. 43 They learn languages, history, geography, physics, chemistry and math. Others go to school to learn a skill so that they can make money. 44. A teacher, no matter how much he knows, cannot teach his students everything they want to know. 45. He teaches them how to read and how to think. So, much more is to be learnt outside school by the students themselves.

It's always more important to learn how to study by oneself than to memorize some facts or rules. Great scientists, like Newton, Galileo and Edison (爱迪生), didn't get everything from school, but they were all successful. 46. The reason for their success is that they knew how to study. They read books that were not taught at school. They worked hard all their lives, wasting not a single moment. Above all, 47.

第 II 卷 笔试部分

六、阅读回答问题。(共 10 分, 每小题 2 分)

Bashert is a gentle (温柔的), white dog. In her mind, there is no human problem so big she can't lick (舔) better. When her owner is sad, she licks him to make him happy. When her owner feels upset, she licks him again to encourage him.

"When I go to camp, I miss Bashert a lot," Bashert's owner Aaron Richards, a 14-year-old boy in the US, told the New York Times.

Animals like Bashert play an important part in people's lives. Whether it is a dog, a cat or a goldfish, people always enjoy their companionship (陪伴). But do you know that people also love animals for other reasons?

When staying with animals, people can relax (放松). Because compared to the human world, the animal world seems to be simpler. People don't need to worry about being judged by words or behaviors. For children, they can forget grades and class performance. What they feel is warmth and acceptance without any conditions.

Animals, especially pets, also teach people to learn responsibility. Besides feeding and cleaning them, you also need to care for them. When they are sick, take them to an animal hospital. When they feel lonely, just play with them for a while. When they get old, you should spend time with them and let them know that you will always love them. Such a caring heart also tells you to treat people in a nice way. Then, you will find yourself a much beloved person.

48. Is Bashert a good dog?

49. What does Bashert do when her owner is sad?

---

50. Why do people feel relaxed when staying with animals?

---

51. According to the passage, how many reasons for people's love to animals or pets are there?
