At 10:00 am on Friday, May 25, 2001, Erik Weihenmayer summitted Mount Everest, the world's highest mountain. The 33-year-old man and his team had been on the mountain for the two months, climbing up and down between the Base Camp at 17,600 feet and Camps 1, and 3 higher up high the mountain. This climbing helped them get used to the high altitude (海拔). It also gave them time to carry supplies, such as tents, and precious oxygen tanks to the higher camps.

After a final climb to Camp 4 at 26,000 feet, Erik's team had to wait two weeks through howling storms before trying to reach the summit at 29,035 feet. Erik is tough, though, and he could deal with the wait. Erik Weihenmayer is also blind. He is the first blind person to reach Everest's summit.

Erik was born with a disease that causes blindness, and by age 13, he had completely lost his sight. Erik learned to treat his blindness as an adventure.

The pain and suffering that climbers experience at high altitudes is incredible. Lack of oxygen causes the lungs to strain and can make the brain swell. Climbers can lose track of reality and may wander off the side of the mountain or take off their oxygen tanks without realizing it. The cold, harsh conditions take a terrible toll(造成伤害) on climbers' bodies. One advantage Erik has oversighted climbers is that he is not affected by snow blindness. Caused by the glare of sun on snow, this makes climbing more difficult for those who are used to being able to see.

Despite all of this, Erik loves climbing. He enjoys the teamwork and the bonding between climbers. His fellow climbers say that describing what they see to Erik makes them appreciate the sights more. They respect his abilities and consider Erik an equal member of their team.

Erik's eventual goal is to be the first blind person to climb the highest peak on each of the seven continents. Although he takes his role as a spokesperson for the blind seriously, he doesn't climb just to prove that blind people can do it. Erik Weihenmayer climbs because it connects him with who he is and makes him feel alive.

43. The underlined word "summitted" in the first sentence means _____.
- A. came to
B. took pictures of
C. caught sight of
D. reached the top of
44. Which of the following conclusions is best supported by this passage?
- A. Mountain climbing is difficult and dangerous.
B. Blind people can do anything that sighted people can do.
C. The pain and suffering that climbers experience at high altitudes is well known.
D. Erik Weihenmayer regarded his blindness as a misfortune.
45. The most helpful quality to Erik in climbing high, difficult mountains is _____.
- A. his acceptance of his blindness
B. his mental toughness
C. his not being affected by snow blindness
D. his desire to enjoy life
46. We can learn from the passage that _____.
- A. being a blind man, Erik has to move more slowly than most climbers
B. Erik's teammates do not feel that he puts them at greater risk
C. being a spokesperson for the blind, Erik doesn't continue his career of climbing mountains
D. Erik's teammates respect his abilities and consider him the best climber of their team
47. Which of the following is the main idea of the passage?
- A. Mountain climbers must be able to endure a lot of pain.
B. How Erik overcame Mount Everest, the world's highest mountain.

- C. Erik Weihenmayer, though blind, is an excellent mountain climber.
 D. Erik Weihenmayer eventually realized his ambitious goal.

Tail Spin

Two dolphins race around in a big pool in the Ocean Park. The smaller dolphin, Grace, shows off a few of her tricks, turning around and waving hello to the crowd. The most amazing thing about her, however, is that she's even swimming at all. She doesn't have a tail.

Grace lost her tail as a baby when she got caught up in a fish trap. When the dolphin arrived at the Ocean Park in December 2005, she was fighting for her life. "Is she going to make it?" Her trainer, Abbey Stone, feared the worst. Grace did make it—but her tail didn't. She ended up losing her flukes and the lower part of her peduncle.

Over the past six years, she has learned to swim without her tail. Dolphins swim by moving their flukes and peduncle up and down. Grace taught herself to move another way—like a fish! She pushes herself forward through the water by moving her peduncle from side to side.

The movements put harmful pressure(压力) on Grace's backbone. So a company offered to create a man-made tail for her. The tail had to be strong enough to stay on Grace as she swam but soft enough that it wouldn't hurt her.

The first time Grace wore the artificial tail, she soon shook it off and let it sink(沉) to the bottom of the pool. Now, she is still learning to use the tail. Some days she wears it for an hour at a time, others not at all. "The new tail isn't necessary for her to feel comfortable," says Stone, "but it helps to keep that range of motion(动作) and build muscles(肌肉)."

Now, the dolphin is about to get an even happier ending. This month, Grace will star in Dolphin Tale, a film that focuses on her rescue and recovery. Her progress has inspired more than just a new movie. Many people travel from near and far to meet her. Seeing Grace swim with her man-made tail gives people so much courage.

48. When Grace first arrived at the Ocean Park, her trainer worried _____.

- A. if she could be strong
 B. if she had special ability
 C. if she could live
 D. if she would like to live in the park

49. A man-made tail is created for Grace to _____.

- A. let her recover faster
 B. make her comfortable
 C. change her way of swimming better
 D. help her perform better tricks

50. The story of Grace inspires people to _____.

- A. stick to their dreams
 B. treat animals friendly
 C. treasure what they have
 D. face difficulties bravely

(D)

D. people enjoy talking about their immaturity

54. Miss Advice wrote the letter to _____.

A. offer suggestions to a future father

B. teach people how to grow up

C. encourage people to be responsible

D. solve problems of the less grown-up

(E)

根据短文内容，从短文后的七个选项中选出能填入空白处的最佳选项，选项中有两项为多余选项。（如果选择 E，请在机读卡上填涂 AB；如果选择 F，请在机读卡上填涂 AC；如果选择 G，请在机读卡上填涂 AD）

Forgiveness (原谅)

To forgive is a virtue, but no one has ever said it is easy. When someone has deeply hurt you, it can be extremely difficult to let go of your hate. However, forgiveness is possible, and it can be surprisingly beneficial to your physical and mental health. People who forgive show less sadness, anger and stress and more hopefulness, according to a recent research.

55 Try the following steps:

Calm yourself. 56 You can take a couple of breaths and think of something that gives you pleasure: a beautiful scene in nature, or someone you love.

Don't wait for an apology. Many times the person who hurt you does not intend to apologize. They may have wanted to hurt you or they just don't see things the same way. 57 Keep in mind that forgiveness does not necessarily mean becoming friends again with the person who upset you.

Take the control away from your offender(冒犯者). Rethinking about your hurt gives power to the person who caused you pain. Instead of focusing on your wounded feelings, learn to look for the love, beauty and kindness around you.

58 If you understand your offender, you may realize that he or she was acting out of unawareness (无意识), fear, and even love. You may want to write a letter to yourself from your offender's point of view.

Don't forget to forgive yourself. 59 But it can rob you of your self-confidence if you don't do it.

- A. Why should you forgive?
- B. How should you start to forgive?
- C. Recognize the benefits of forgiveness.
- D. Try to see things from your offender's angle (角度).
- E. For some people, forgiving themselves is the biggest challenge.
- F. To make your anger die away, try a simple stress-management technique.
- G. If you wait for people to apologize, you could be waiting an awfully long time.
