Reading didn't really change my life until I saw it change the life of a child.

Marcus was a quiet boy who lived with his mother in a shelter (收容所) for the poor. Because he was the weakest _13_ in his class, he became one of my Reading Help students. Marcus knew letters but couldn't read at all. However, he worked very hard and made progress very _14_. I often gave him books to take home every night so that he could read them with his mother.

One day, Marcus didn't bring his books back. He looked so _15_ that he was about to cry. When asked why, he told me that someone had taken his book bag during the night. I put my arm around his shoulders and _16_ that I would give him more books to take home. "Maybe the person who took your books," I said, "will become a good reader just like you."

A few weeks later, I learned Marcus and his mother were being moved to a different shelter across town for safety. I began to _17_ what his future would be if he couldn't finish the program. Marcus' mother was worried too, so she put him on public transportation every day and sent him all the way across town to _18_ with me.

Marcus finally graduated from the program as a strong reader. We had a small celebration and I gave him a book to keep. That was the last time I saw Marcus. Although I may never see him again, I'm certain that learning to read changed his life forever. The _19_ certainly changed mine. Since then, I've taught many struggling readers, from ages 5 to 75. Each student has increased my love for teaching reading. Each one reminds me what a/an _20_ it is to be a teacher working with struggling readers, and how happy it is to see lives changed forever by the simple joy of reading.

This weekend a marathon (马拉松) took place in Salzburg. I admired the runners who ran 42.2 kilometers for over four hours. But I've never run for more than half an hour.

At university I play korfball. This is a team sport with eight people on each team. The aim is to shoot (投篮) the ball into the hoop. All players get a chance to attack (攻) and defend (守) during the game and it's very fast. When I started korfball, I wasn't very good at it. I could throw and catch but I wasn't very fast on my feet. Shooting was also difficult for me. However, I really enjoyed the sport and made friends in the club, so I went training twice a week. Two years later I am in the first team for my university and have played in many matches. This just shows if you train hard, you can succeed.

Running is difficult because you have to make yourself willing to keep going. I used to get really out of breath while running and I didn't feel good at all! Now I actually enjoy going for a run along the river in Salzburg, feeling my muscles (肌肉) working and breathing in the fresh air.

Challenging exercise is always worth doing. Hiking is fun because all the hard work—walking uphill comes at the beginning of the day, then at the top of the mountain you can enjoy the view. At the end of the day you feel like you've really achieved something.

I will never be a marathon runner, but I would like to try a 10-km run sometime, or perhaps even a half-marathon. How happy the runners were as they crossed the finishing line! I'd like to have that feeling—the months of training paying off as you achieve your goal.

24. What did the writer think of running the marathon at first?
A. Difficult.                      B. Strange.
C. Enjoyable.                      D. Exciting.
25. When the writer started korfball, he couldn't _____.
A. catch and throw a ball
B. catch and shoot a ball
C. move quickly while playing
D. catch the ball from teammates
26. Why does the writer think challenging exercise is worth doing?
A. It helps him make lots of friends.
B. It gives him a sense of achievement.
C. It makes him become a marathon runner.
D. It helps him get to the top of the mountain.

Do you use emoji very often? It's said that emoji is the fastest growing language in history. Five billion emojis are sent every day just on some social media, such as Wechat and Facebook. They're appearing in some surprising places too. One court (法庭) judge in England used a smiley face emoji in a document (文件, 文献) to make it easy to explain the court's decision to children. It's not surprising that there's a day to celebrate emojis, but what do you know about its organizers, the website Emojipedia?

The company Unicode actually creates the computer code that gives us emojis, but Emojipedia is where you can learn exactly what each emoji means and how to use it. Most of us probably know and use the most popular emojis, like the classic smiley face, heart or the smiling face with tears of laughter. But if you want to grow your emoji vocabulary, you can use Emojipedia to find out new ways to speak emoji.

Unicode adds new emojis all the time. They might take time to be shown on all platforms and phones, but you will see them immediately on Emojipedia. An important improvement to the emoji list, which had 2, 823 emojis after its 2018 update, is to make the emojis more various. The code for each emoji is the same, but different platforms, like Wechat or Facebook, design their emojis in different ways. When Emojipedia was deciding on which day to hold World Emoji Day, only Apple was using a calendar emoji with a date on, 17 July. So, they decided to celebrate World Emoji Day on 17 July too.

If you want to send someone a message using emoji to celebrate World Emoji Day, Emojipedia has plenty to choose from, including six colors of raising hand emojis, five party emojis and two kinds of fireworks. You can even choose a world globe that shows the part of the world you live in. Whichever emojis you choose to celebrate, we wish you Happy World Emoji Day!

27. Why did a court judge use a smiley face emoji in a document?
- A. To surprise children.                      B. To play a joke on children.
 C. To attract children to study the law.    D. To explain the court's decision to children.
28. Different platforms _____.
- A. add new emojis all the time              B. improve the emojis after 2018
 C. design the emojis in different ways      D. use the same emojis in the same situation
29. Which of the following is true?
- A. Only Apple celebrates World Emoji Day on 17 July.
 B. We can choose 13 emojis to celebrate World Emoji Day.
 C. We can find out new emojis and how to use them on Emojipedia.
 D. Five billion people send emojis every day on Wechat and Facebook.

Each year in November, I receive a lot of emails and texts from friends who want to volunteer with their families on Thanksgiving as a way to give back. I also field phone calls from organizations who want to donate (捐赠) to local programs that provide Thanksgiving meals.

However, as an official who still works in the nonprofit sector (非盈利部门), I also feel deeply anxious (焦急的) because I know the other 51 weeks of the year, these key programs that provide food to residents (居民) in need are eager for both volunteers and donations. Hunger is a year round problem, and each week volunteers are the necessary part to make sure that programs are able to serve the community.

At Food For Free, we depend on about 100 volunteers per week, and each of those volunteers is extremely important to providing fresh, healthy food to people in the Greater Boston area who need it. School children who take backpacks of food home on Fridays, community college students who depend on our Family Meals program to support their healthy growth, elderly and disabled residents who receive twice monthly deliveries of food to their doors through our Home Delivery program, they all depend on us making sure enough volunteers show up to do the work.

These volunteers don't show up in your social media system, they don't win prizes and no one writes about them in the local newspapers. But they are heroes. And you can be too.

If everyone made a promise to volunteer once a month, or even once a quarter, I know that we could reduce some of the anxiety these organizations feel, as a more trust-worthy volunteer network allows them to focus on helping people, not filling volunteer positions.

Here is a list of a few organizations who are doing important work in Cambridge to make sure the food to be safe. Offer your time to an organization, they will be deeply grateful, and I am quite sure that you will feel pretty good about yourself too.

四、阅读短文，根据短文内容回答问题。（共 10 分，每小题 2 分）

Hi Ellie,

I'm so pleased you can come surfing (冲浪) in August! Paul, Rose and Kevin are coming too, so there will be five of us. We've decided to return to New Sands, because the surf board hire (租) is so cheap there. I'm starting to think about where to stay.

 Kevin wants to hire a caravan. There are some nice ones with 3 bedrooms, showers, and cooking equipment. The problem is, none of the caravan parks takes short bookings in the summer. We have to stay for at least a week. It's a shame because there are several nice parks near the beach.

 There's a good youth hostel (青年旅社) in New Sands. It's the cheapest choice, and there's a big kitchen where we can cook. The problem is, we live in dormitories and I don't really want to sleep with strangers.

There are a few guest houses in New Sands. They're not expensive, but we wouldn't be able to cook there. We'd have to eat out at restaurants. We'll have to book soon because many of them are already full.

 The final choice is to rent a cottage. Few cottages offer mid-week breaks in summer, but I found one. It has three bedrooms—a double, a single and a twin, so two of us would have to share a bed! There's a big kitchen diner with a microwave, washing machine and dishwasher. The problem is, it's 5 miles from the beach, so we'd have to hire a car, because there aren't any buses.

Let me know which choice you prefer.

Yours,
Natalie

34. When are they going surfing?
 35. What does Kevin prefer to hire?
 36. Where do they have to live in a youth hostel?
 37. What's the problem with the cottage Natalie found?
 38. Why does Natalie write to Ellie?
