The Basketball Team

I was taller than everyone in the school, but I was not good at any sports.

In Grade 8, we got a new teacher at our school. He took one look at me and said, "This school needs a basketball team, and you are going to be the 13!" I laughed (大笑), and my friends laughed even more.

“Darlene doesn’t even know what a basketball is!” said one of my friends. The new teacher said, “Don’t worry. I’ll 14 you what she can do.”

Every day after school, I worked with my new teacher. He told me that because I was so 15, my job would be to play center. A center is a player who 16 under the net and puts rebounds (篮板球) into the net. Centers are always the tallest on the team.

I did push-ups and sit-ups. Most of all, I 17 shooting. When I first started, I got zero of ten shots I took. But after a few weeks, I had about five of ten shots landing in the basket.

I still wasn’t very good. But I was so tall that if someone took a shot I was usually the first one to get the 18 after it came down from the net. I became pretty good at 19 the ball into the net.

The season came and went. I didn’t do very well, but I learned something about myself that season. Now I’m in Grade 9 and I’m not 20 enough to become the star. But I think I will be next year.

The Gift

Today is Grandma's 85th birthday.

"I'm giving her a picture," says Brian. "I took it with my new camera. What are you going to give her?" he asks his brother Joey.

"I don't know," says Joey. "I don't have a camera, so I can't take a picture."

Joey goes into the kitchen. His mom is busy baking. "Mom, what are you giving Grandma?"

"I'm baking her favorite cake," says Joey's mom. "I can't bake cakes. I don't know how," says Joey.

Joey goes to his sister's room. She is busy knitting (编织). "Susan, what are you giving Grandma?"

"I'm knitting her a sweater," says Susan. "I can't knit sweaters. I don't know how," says Joey.

Joey then goes and sits next to Grandma on the sofa. "Everyone has a present for you, but me. I can't take a picture, bake or knit. I don't have anything to give you," says Joey.

Grandma puts her arm around Joey. "No one else has the time to come and sit with me. That's what you can give me," says Grandma. Joey snuggles in close to Grandma. "Happy Birthday," he says.

26. What does Joey do on his grandma's birthday?

- A. He buys a camera.
- B. He cleans the sofa.
- C. He cooks for Grandma.
- D. He stays with Grandma.

C

Lots of kids want to keep healthy by eating well. Here's something kids can do to eat healthily: learn the differences between Go, Slow and Whoa foods.

The US National Heart, Lung and Blood Institute asks kids to start thinking about whether (是否) foods are Go foods, Slow foods or Whoa foods.

Go foods

These foods are good to eat almost anytime. They are the healthiest ones. Examples, tofu, fresh fruit (apples, oranges, bananas, etc.) and fresh vegetables (carrots, tomatoes, etc.).

Slow foods

We should eat these foods sometimes. We shouldn't eat them every day. At most, eat them a few times a week. Examples, 100% fruit juice, sports drinks and pancakes.

Whoa foods

These foods should make you say that—Whoa! Should I eat that? Whoa foods are the least healthy. Examples, ice cream, cakes and candy.

Now you know what Go, Slow and Whoa foods are. You can choose what to eat. Be sure to tell your parents about the three groups. Then everyone in the family can learn when to say Go and when to say Whoa!

27. The passage is written for_____.

- A. parents B. teachers C. kids D. cooks

28. Which of the following is Go food?

- A. Orange juice. B. Tofu.
C. Ice cream. D. Candy.

29. What can we learn from the passage?

- A. We should eat Whoa foods every day.
B. Children can have sports drinks anytime.
C. Children should say “Whoa” to get ice cream.
D. We can eat apple pancakes a few times a week.

30. What’s the passage mainly about?

- A. Some ideas about eating healthy food.
B. Some ways of cooking food in the kitchen.
C. The differences between three food groups.
D. The interesting sayings about different foods.

D

Do you walk slowly? If so, you may not want to hear the findings of this study.

Scientists at Duke University found that the slower a person walks, the less (较少的) capable his or her brain is.

Scientists studied the walking speeds (速度) of 904 middle-aged people from New Zealand starting from when they were just 3 years old. Over 42 years, scientists tested their walking speed many times.

They found that the speed had something to do with the brain. If the subjects (实验对象) had lower IQ scores and worse language skills as children, they were likely to become slow walkers as they reached middle age. At the age of 45, the average gap in IQ between the slowest and the fastest walkers was 16 points.

Scientists said that genes (基因) might be the reason for this. However, smarter people may be more likely to do physical activity, which means they may walk faster later in life.

Can slower walkers make their brains work better? Maybe. Scientists looked at the brain scans of 926 people. They asked them to walk as fast as they can for two minutes. Scientists checked the distance they walked and then asked them to take some tests. Those who walked further and faster did better on the tests.
