Many teenagers have problems that worry them. Some do not learn their school subject well. Some are good at learning and do well in exams, but they are doing so poorly in sports that their classmates call them bookworms. So many teenagers suffer from stress. The good news is that there are some simple ways to deal with stress.

First, eating a healthy diet, getting enough sleep and doing exercise are very important. How can we be happy if we are not fit?

Secondly, for school work, planning ahead can help making a list of things they need to do and planning when to do they can help students organize their time. If you are weak in a subject, studying hard and asking a teacher for advice can help.

Thirdly, students should pay no attention to people who laugh at them. Instead, they should think about the things that are good.

Then students should also make enough time for their hobbies. Playing sports, reading and watching films also help them feel comfortable.

Finally, it is suitable for teenagers to share their problems with their friends and parents.
