Most American families are smaller than the families in other countries. Children in the US will leave their parents' home when they grow up. They usually live far from their parents because they want to find good jobs. They often write to their parents or telephone them. And they often go to visit their parents on holiday.

Parents usually let their children choose their own jobs. Americans think it is important for young people to decide on their lives by themselves.

In America, parents usually let their children do some work around their house. And in many families, parents give their children money for doing some housework so that their children learn how to make money for their own use.

32. An American family is _____ than that in other country.

- A. more B. less C. bigger D. smaller

33. When children in America grow up, they leave their parents' home to _____.

- A. get married(结婚) B. be free

B. Parents don't ask their children to do any housework.
C. Parents think it is important for their children to make their own decisions.
D. American children usually live far from their parents when they grow up.

"Be proud of what you do.," my father always tells me, "whether you are a boss or a cleaner." When I am 15, I get a summer job in a hospital. I am told that my duties include(包括) sweeping(扫) floors. I smile and remember Dad's words.

Even though my job is the lowest, it makes me feel excited. I see it as a challenge(挑战) because it is my first job. I learn to be on time and try to do everything well. In return, I get respect(尊敬) from doctors, nurses and patients. Each morning I imagine that the dirty dishes will make patients sicker if I am not there to wash them clean. After breakfast, I start sweeping the floors of all patient rooms and cleaning toilets. Though I am tired, I want to do the job well. People say, "That young boy really does a good job." That gives me a pride.

Working in the hospital teaches me that being proud of one's job is important. It does not matter whether the job is sweeping floors or managing a large business. Through every job I have, my father's words have always stayed with me. I have swept floors, and I have been a manager. I think Dad will be proud of me.

36. The writer's first job is a _____.

- A. boss B. cleaner C. manager D. doctor

37. Which of the following doesn't the writer do in the hospital according to the passage?

- A. Looking after patients. B. Washing dishes.
C. Cleaning toilets. D. Sweeping the floor.

38. From the passage we know that _____.

- A. the writer's father always stays with him
B. the father doesn't like the writer's first job
C. the writer doesn't do well in his first job
D. the father's words encourages(鼓励) the writer to do everything well

39. Which is the best title(题目) of the passage?

- A. Smiling With Yourself B. My Father
C. My First Job D. Working in the Hospital

D.

When you're a child, making friends does not seem to be so hard. Though the young can sometimes be very mean creatures(吝啬的人), if we're lucky enough, we can make really good friends. When we grow up, we see them as old friends.

There are many friends that will come into your life—some you lose touch with, though you don't really want to, some you choose to no longer be friends with. But your old friends, no matter(无论) how near or far they are, are still part of your life.

From old friends we learn how much we grow. They witness(见证) everything, from the greatest moments in life to our smallest mistakes, to the moments we're least proud of. They sometimes make us do better. And we know that if we're happy with who we've become, they play an important part on that way.

There is a freedom(自由) that comes with old friends but newer friendships can sometimes fail to bring. You don't need to make them understand you because they do, you don't need to change a little bit to make them love you better. There is a great comfort(安慰) that you know a friend has loved you for a long time; and that this person will go on loving you anyway.

With old friends there is often great laughter about the shared history of your pasts. There are solemn memories(庄严的记忆) of the difficult times that you go through.

With old friends, you realize(意识到) true friendships are difficult to build, to make it grow, and to hold onto. And the feeling of having a friend long enough to call them an 'old friend', is wonderful.

Old friends hold a mirror in front of us and make us see how far we've come, and how far we still have to go to be the person we can be. They tell us that the past was both good and bad, and the future is something to look forward to. No matter how time flies, when we're with them, we have a feeling of home—a place where we can be stupid with people who love us.

40. Which of the following is true according to Paragraph 2?

- A. Children are always lucky.
- B. We never lose any friends.
- C. Old friends are always part of our life.
- D. It's hard for a child to make new friends.

41. From the passage, we know that _____

- A. real old friends make our life always stay the same
- B. children are mean creatures to make friends with
- C. old friends can give us a warm home to live in
- D. not everyone is lucky enough to have old friends

42. What does the underlined sentence 'we can be stupid with people who love us' mean?

- A. We hope we are together with our friends when we are stupid.
- B. Our friends like us the way we are so we feel free to be ourselves.
- C. Our old friends have a lot of good memories with us.
- D. Our old friends like us to be stupid all the time.

九、阅读短文，回答下面的问题。(共10分，每小题2分)

A dog can't speak any words, but it can 'talk'. It has feelings just as you do. Sometimes it may feel angry or afraid. Watch a dog closely, and you can find out how it feels. You can see what it is trying to tell you.

When you are afraid, you may look down. When a dog is afraid, it may run away. When you are angry with other people, you look at them and so does an angry dog. Sometimes the hair along its back stands up.

Do you feel sorry when you do something wrong? Dogs can feel sorry, too. Sometimes when I come home, my dog gives me a sad look. Then I know he has done something wrong.

Dogs need love and attention. Some dogs are very unhappy when they are alone for a long time. Some dogs even get angry if they don't get enough love.

You may have a dog or you may know a dog. You must be kind to your dog if you want to have fun with it. Play with it. Take it for walks. Always remember, a dog has needs and feelings just as you do. Talk to a dog, and it will talk to you.

53. How can you find out how a dog feels?
54. What may a dog do when it is afraid?
55. How does a dog feel when it does something wrong?
56. When does a dog get angry?
57. What must you do if you have a dog?

I'm Mary. I am in Class 6 Grade 7. This is my new school. It's really beautiful and big. There is a new classroom building in the middle of the school. My classroom is on the first floor.

There are many classrooms in this building. Every room has a computer with a big screen. Behind the classroom building is our playground. It's very big. Every day we do sports on the playground. On the right of the playground is my favourite place—the library. On Tuesdays and Fridays, we can read books, newspapers or magazines there. I love to read. On the left of the playground is the dining hall. We have lunch in the dining hall at 12 o'clock every day.

The teachers in the new school are all very nice and friendly. My English teacher, Ms Chen, is a beautiful lady. Her class is very interesting. My classmates and I all enjoy her class. I love my new school. What about your new school?
