A Lighted Lamp

These days I find an old man. He lives near my home in a small town by himself. He is very special. Why? He is blind (失明的), so he can't see anything. However, he always carries a lighted lamp with him when he goes out at night. I go with him and want to know why he does like this.

After he has dinner in a restaurant near a park today, he walks back to his home. In the street, he meets a group of young men. They find he is blind, but he is carrying a lighted lamp. They think it is so funny and start to make fun of him. One of them asks him, "Hey, old man! You are blind and can't see anything! Why do you carry the lamp? It's not useful for you."

The blind man smiles and says, "Yes, it's true I am blind. I can't see anything, and I don't need the lamp. In fact, the lamp is for those people like you. You can see the world, right? At night, you may walk around me, so I hope this lamp can help you light up (照亮) your way home. At the same time, when I'm carrying the lamp at night, people can see me so they don't hit me (撞到我). That is why I am carrying the lighted lamp at night." After hearing this, the group of young men say sorry to the blind man and they all think he is very kind.

20. What do those young men think of the blind man in the end?
A. He is sorry. B. He is kind.
C. He is strange. D. He is funny.

C

Jiang Mengnan is a 30-year-old woman from Hunan. She can't hear because of some medicine, but she is a student in Tsinghua University (清华大学).

Her parents are both teachers and they don't want their daughter to be a deaf mute all her life. So they try all kinds of ways to teach her to know what people say and how to talk with others. It is very slow and hard, but her parents never give up and Jiang can speak at last.

Jiang Mengnan studies very hard and finishes her middle school. Then, she goes to Jilin University and after that she becomes a Doctor of School of Life Sciences in Tsinghua University. It is difficult for her in class. Teachers often write on the blackboard with their backs to the students, so Jiang can't know the teachers' words. She must write down everything on the blackboard and study after class. She is hard-working so she is good at all the subjects.

Jiang Mengnan is one of the winners of Person Touching China for 2021. She wants to say thanks to her parents, teachers and friends because they always think she is very great, and she never thinks she is not the same as others. She can also help her classmates with their lessons. Her teachers and classmates like her a lot. Jiang Mengnan can't be a doctor, but she wants to help people with illness. She can't hear or speak well, but she can do what common (普通的) people can't do. There are a lot of people around us like Jiang Mengnan. We should learn from them. When we meet difficulties, we should work hard and try to be the winners in our lives.

Many parents make their children do chores. For some families, teaching children to do chores is easy. But in other families, getting children to do some housework can be a very big problem.

Should children do chores? The answer is yes. As you can see, children can learn many things in many different subjects or activities and that is helpful for them. It is a good idea for parents to teach their children at an early age. All family members must work together to make the house clean, and each person must do his or her share of the work. Doing chores can help children feel that they are a part of the family. It is important for the family relationships.

Studies also show chores are good for children. Doing chores can teach children many important skills like working together. Chores can help children learn to manage (管理) their time, too. They will learn that working quickly will give them much time to do other things they want to. The skills from doing chores will be good to children all their life.

Little children can do easy chores like tidying up their toys each day. They can begin to learn to tidy up their rooms. School-age children should also do chores, for example, putting their shoes and schoolbags away when they get home from school. Older students should do all the chores. They need to learn the skills for life such as cooking, cleaning, walking the dog and helping with housework. Little by little, they can look after (照顾) themselves and a family.

25. According to the writer, it's good to teach _____ to do chores.

- A. young children B. good friends C. many parents D. some families

26. What is Paragraph 3 mainly about?

- A. It's very easy to teach children to do chores.
B. All the parents make their children do chores.
C. Doing chores will be good to children all their life.
D. Older students should not do the chores after school.

27. Why does the writer write this passage?

- A. To teach little children how to do chores for the families.
B. To show children they can't do chores for their families.
C. To tell us why children should do chores and what to do.
D. To ask parents to help children do chores after school.
