A teacher in New York decided to honor her students by telling the difference they each made. First, she thanked each of them for how they made a difference to her and the class. Then she gave each student three blue ribbons with gold letters reading, "Who I Am Makes a Difference." The students went out to find somebody to honor. The person would keep a ribbon and give the extra ones to a third person to keep it going.

One boy went to a manager in a nearby company and honored him for helping him with his career planning. Later that day the manager went in to see his boss. He told him that he deeply admired (钦佩) him for being a creative talent. He gave the surprised boss the last extra ribbon and asked him to find somebody else to honor.

That night the boss went home to his 14-year-old son. He told the boy what had happened and said, "I want to honor you, son. My days are really busy and when I come home I don't pay a lot of attention to you. Sometimes I shout at you for not getting good enough grades in school and for your bedroom being untidy, but somehow tonight, I just want to let you know that you do make a difference to me. Besides your mother, you are the most important person in my life. You're a great kid and I love you!"

Hearing this, the boy started to cry and couldn't stop. He looked up at his father and said through his tears, "I was planning on leaving home tomorrow, Dad, because I didn't think you loved me. Now I don't need to."

47. What did the teacher give to the students to honor them?

A. Career planning.

B. Blue ribbons.

C. Special prizes.

D. Gold medals.

48. How did the boss feel about what the manager said and did?

A. He was sad.

B. He was angry.

C. He was pleased.

D. He was surprised.

49. Before the boss talked to his son, the boy was planning to _____.

A. leave his home

B. pay attention to his father

C. clean his room

D. get good grades in school

50. From the story, we give others blue ribbons for _____.

A. showing their success in career

B. giving them our kindness in return

C. admiring their creativity and talent

D. honoring the difference they made

C

We all know that money can't make us happy, but many times we act as if we'd be happier with a bit more money. We are trained to want to be richer; we are trained to want the latest style that television tells us; we want to earn more money because then we'll have a good life.

But none of that will make us happier. And the sad thing is that it can take us decades of pursuing (追求) wealth and expensive things before we realize that. So what will bring us happiness? Luckily, there are three things that don't cost anything. Here they are.

Good relationships. We have a human need to be close to other human beings. Having good, supportive friendships, a strong marriage or loving relationships with our family members will make us much more likely to be happy. Therefore, take time, today, to stay with your loved ones, to tell them what they mean to you, to listen to them and to develop your relationships with them.

Positive thinking. Optimism (乐观) is one of the best signs of people who lead a happy life. Happy people like the feel of controlling their lives. So why not make positive thinking a habit? In fact, this should be one of the first habits you develop.

Flow. This is a popular concept (观念) on the Internet these days — the state (状态) we enter when we are completely focused on the work or task. Having work and leisure (休闲) that gets you in this state of flow will almost undoubtedly lead to happiness. People find the greatest enjoyment not when they are doing a completely mindless task, but when they're interested in a mindful challenge.

If you are interested in some kind of work and fond of some kind of hobbies, it is not a bad idea. Turn off the TV—this is the opposite of flow—and then go outside and do something that truly makes you active.

51. To get on well with our family members, we can _____.

- A. make more money for them
- B. buy expensive things for them
- C. stay with them and communicate with them
- D. tell them everything that happens to us in our daily life

52. According to the passage, the first habit we should develop is _____.

- A. to have a good hobby
- B. to do things carefully
- C. to make positive thinking a habit
- D. to listen to your family members patiently

53. If we want to be happy, we should _____.

- A. turn off the TV
- B. do our best to work
- C. lose ourselves in playing
- D. work hard and have a hobby

54. The passage mainly talks about _____.

- A. why we'd be happy
- B. what makes us happy
- C. how to make money
- D. how to make friends

Many people think sports are just for winning and honor, but there is a lot more you can gain from (get out of) them. I have learned over the past years that sometimes when I lose, I get a lot more out of it than winning. Also, I find a lot of times in sports, people are getting too caught up in the game instead of just having fun. The real purpose of sports is to have fun and learn life lessons along the way.

I greatly encourage you to be a part of the school sports. Even if you are not the best, you can still have fun. Sports give people a great and healthy way of spending an afternoon, instead of lying around playing video games or even getting into bad things. Sports also give us a sense of achievement. There isn't a better feeling than to have done something fun and productive for my day.

I think that we all need sports to give us courage. If we try hard in sports, we usually do well. If we did the same in study, we would all be champions. Another reason why I encourage you to play sports is that it's just fun. Without sports, our lives would just be boring. So as you may be able to tell, sports are amazing!

Our coaches not only teach us to play sports, but show class and good sportsmanship while playing them. It's never fun when you lose to have the competitor rub it in your face. That's why our coaches teach us to show class when we lose; also, when coaches get onto you, don't get down. They only want to see you improve and learn from what they say. When you do badly and they don't shout loudly is when you should start worrying because they are giving up on you.

All in all, sports are great! They bring out the best and worst of a lot of us. However, we can't let sports get too serious to where it brings down all the fun. So to have the most fun in sports, you just need to try your best and not worry so much about the winning or losing.

55. The underlined phrase "get onto you" in Paragraph 4 probably means _____.

- A. point out your mistakes
- B. take up your time
- C. worry about your future
- D. look into your privacy

56. Which of the following statements is TRUE according to the passage?

- A. Sports bring us great fun only if we have the talent.
- B. Sports give us the best way of spending free time.
- C. We can get more out of winning than losing.
- D. We should take pleasure in doing sports.

57. What is the best title of this passage?

- A. Are we too caught up?
- B. To win or to gain?
- C. Are sports really great?
- D. For honor or for health?

八、阅读短文，根据短文内容回答问题。（每题2分，共10分）

What can we do to help protect the environment? It seems useless to just pick up a piece of trash (垃圾), but what will happen if you keep doing it every day? Tommy Kleyn, an ordinary man from the Netherlands, may give you the answer.

Tommy Kleyn walked past a polluted river on his way to work every day. It used to be a beautiful view, but the trash on the bank made it dirty and smelly. So Tommy decided to pick up the trash along the river a little bit at a time after work. "It took me about 30 minutes to fill one garbage (垃圾) bag with trash, but one garbage bag didn't seem helpful in a place as polluted as this. I decided to fill one bag of trash each day as I passed by," Tommy said. Every day, Tommy took pictures of the river and shared them on his Facebook page. To his surprise, in just six days, he had made great progress with his cleanup effort (努力). He felt happy and kept doing it.

Gradually, more and more people knew about Tommy's story. Other people in the community began following in his footsteps and cleaning up trash on their way home, too.

"The idea is to encourage people to fill one garbage bag with litter each day. It only takes 30 minutes, but it really makes a difference and you will be amazed at how good you feel afterwards," he said.

People from all over the world have been moved and inspired (激发) by Tommy's story. No effort is useless if we keep doing it every day. Ordinary people like you and me can also make a difference to the world we live in if we take actions right now.

58. Did Tommy Kleyn walk past a polluted river on his way to work every day?

59. What did Tommy decide to do after work?

60. Where did Tommy share the pictures of the river that he took?

61. Who began following in Tommy's footsteps and cleaning up trash?

62. What can you learn from the story?

假如你是李华，你的笔友 Peter 在生活中遇到了一些困难，他感到十分困惑，他写信给你寻求帮助。现在请你给写一封回信，回答他的问题，并针对他的困惑提出合理建议。

Dear Li Hua,

How is it going?

I'm glad that I had your email yesterday. To tell you the truth, I feel stressed out at school these days. First, I study hard, but I still can't get good grades. Then, I don't sleep well at night and I often have headaches and feel sleepy in class. Besides, my parents can't understand me at all. They always think I'm wasting time. Sometimes I even argue with them. That makes us unhappy. Do you have the same problems? I need your help now.

I'm looking forward to hearing from you soon.

Yours,
Peter
